Simple Search: 간단 검색

The screenshot shows the ebrary Simple Search interface. At the top, there are navigation tabs: Info, Search, QuickView, and Bookshelf. The search bar contains the text "culture studies" and a "Search ebrary" button. To the right of the search bar, there are links for "Advanced" and "All Subjects".

Below the search bar, there are tabs for "TITLE RESULTS", "CHAPTER RESULTS", and "SEARCHES". A red dashed box highlights a section titled "Focus your search using:" with two radio buttons: "Any of the selected subjects (e.g. Math OR Science)" (selected) and "All of the selected subjects (e.g. Math AND Science)". Below this are several checkboxes for subject categories: Archaeology, Play, Cuba, History, United States, India, Research, Methodology, 20th Century, Study And Teaching, Clothing And Dress, Culture, Material Culture, Philosophy, and Ciencias Naturales. A "Search ebrary" button is located at the bottom left of this section.

At the bottom of the search results section, there are buttons for "Save Search" and "Export Search Results". Below these are "View:" options for "Short", "Medium", and "Long", and "Sort results by:" options for "Relevance", "Title", "Contributor", "Publisher", and "Date".

The search results list shows two documents. The first document is "Camera As Historian : Amateur Photographers and Historical Imagination, 1885-1918" by Elizabeth Edwards, published by Duke University Press. The second document is "Ashgate Popular and Folk Music Series : Bruce Springsteen, Cultural Studies, and the Runaway American Dream" by Kenneth Womack and Mark Bernhard, published by Ashgate Publishing Group. Each document entry includes a small thumbnail image, the title, author, publisher, original publication date, subjects, and a row of action buttons: "Table of Contents", "Download", "Find Similar", "EndNote & Citavi", "RefWorks", and "Add to Bookshelf".

I didn't know much about the employment structure in West London where I walked round the local trading estates to look for a job. I was surprised to see the women workers in the largest trading estate, which I shall call Victoria Trading Estate, were of Caribbean or Asian origin— few factories had even a small proportion of white women. It would be difficult enough for me to be accepted by working-class women, but I was worried that the barriers would be that much greater if I was one of the few whites. Black and Asian women would have more reasons to be suspicious of my colour as well as my background, education and speech. It would be difficult to fit in where there were some other white women.

Glucksmann, Miriam. Women on the Line. Florence, KY, USA: Routledge, 2008. p 34.
